TECHNOLOGY CORNER

BCC950 ConferenceCam Enables Voice and Video on PCs and Macs

Logitech (SIX: LOGN) (NASDAQ: LOGI) today introduced a new product category for unified communications (UC) and Web conferencing: the all-in-one audio and video ConferenceCam. The Logitech® BCC950 ConferenceCam is the first communications tool to combine a full HD webcam with a high-quality, omni-directional full-duplex speakerphone in one USB device, enabling small groups to collaborate in conference rooms, closed offices or shared work spaces.

The BCC950 ConferenceCam features a full HD webcam with motorised pan, tilt and zoom for easily bringing everyone into the picture - either from a control pad on the device or with a convenient remote control. The control pad or the remote can also answer calls, end calls, adjust the volume and mute the microphone.

Optimised for Microsoft Lync and Skype Certified, the BCC950 ConferenceCam works with most UC and video platforms. With a wide 78-degree field of view and 180-degree video pan, support for 1080p, 30fps HD through plug-and-play UVC H.264 video technology, and a speakerphone that allows everyone in a meeting to hear and be heard clearly from up to eight feet away, the ConferenceCam helps remove the pain point of groups clustering around a computer to be seen and understood during UC calls. Weighing only 568g, the ConferenceCam can be carried easily around an office, allowing for spontaneous meetings anywhere users can place a computer.

"We have a number of remote workers who value face-to-face time with their colleagues in the office, but we haven't had an appropriate tool for small-group video meetings," said Jim Hayes, IT operations manager for 24HourFlex, an employee benefits solutions provider in Aurora, Colo. "We've been testing pre-production units of the Logitech BCC950 ConferenceCam for more than a month and it's proved to be an ideal solution for this bottleneck. We can now quickly and easily add audio and video conferencing to any room with an affordable device that doesn't compromise on call quality."

The Logitech BCC950 ConferenceCam is ideal for meetings of one to four or more people, whether in conference rooms or individual offices. A high-quality webcam sensor and Logitech RightLight™ 2 technology improve visual quality in low light and backlit situations, while a razor-sharp Carl Zeiss® lens and the camera's autofocus feature allow sharing of detailed documents and other visuals up close, without losing image quality.

"The workplace is rapidly evolving toward smaller and more virtual teams, yet communication tools have not kept pace," said Eric Kintz, vice president and general manager of Logitech for Business. "In looking at the needs of our customers, we saw a gap in solutions that bring audio and videoconferencing to small groups. The Logitech BCC950 ConferenceCam fills that gap by combining a webcam and speakerphone into a single affordable device - transforming PCs and Macs into communications platforms, so businesses can set up more locations for small-group meetings."

PRICING AND AVAILABILITY
The Logitech BCC950 ConferenceCam is expected to be available worldwide beginning in May 2012, for a price of £199.99, from resellers who specialise in the business-to-business market. The product will not be offered by consumer electronics retailers. For more information on the Logitech BCC950 ConferenceCam and other Logitech products for business, please visit www.logitech.com/business or our blog.

"The Walking Dead" appearing April 8

The walking dead have a message for you. Matthew 27:50-53 "And when Jesus had cried out again in a loud voice, He gave up his spirit. At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom. The earth shook, the rocks split and the tombs broke open. The bodies of many holy people who had died were raised to life. They came out of the tombs after Jesus' resurrection and went into the holy city and appeared to many people." Want to know what message these walking dead had? Visit Antioch Mills Christian Church on US Hwy. 27 in Berry at 9 a.m. or 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, April 8. Check out www.antiochmills.org for more information.

Change to program for low-income telephone customers

Federal policy change ends subsidy for initial service

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) made changes that will end a program that subsidizes the cost of telephone service to low-income consumers.

The Link-Up program is set to end April 2, however, the Lifeline program that helps customers pay monthly phone bills will continue. Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) Chairman David Armstrong wants to "encourage eligible Kentuckians to continue to avail themselves" of the Lifeline program.

The end to Link-Up, which provides up to $30 for initial cost of telephone services, is part of an FCC effort to overhaul low-income assistance programs. The focus is being shifted from voice telephone service to broadband (high-speed) internet service instead.

The Lifeline program covers up to $12.75 a month for eligible households to maintain a single telephone line, whether land or wireless.

Kentuckians can find out more information through the A Guide to Telephone Service Programs for Low-Income Consumers brochure at <http://psc.ky.gov/agencies/psc/consumer/lifeline.pdf> and the online Lifeline program guide at www.fcc.gov/encyclopedia/lifeline-program-low-income-consumers.

Bullying

4-H Secretary Kelsey Knight, gave all the six grade students a clean, white sheet of copy paper. Then, she told them to crumple the piece of paper into a ball. "Now," she said, "straighten the paper out!" The students soon understood that this was impossible. The damage was irreversible. Kelsey said, "This is what happens to victims of bullies. Wounds have been inflicted that may never go away." Then, Kelsey Knight told the students that if they ever became a victim of a bully they should tell an adult. "Tell a teacher, principal, guidance counselor or parent."

The students were shown videos that expressed the deep emotional trauma and thought processes of kids that were targets of the negative, aggressive behavior of others.

Middle School Guidance

Counselor Faye Thornton told the students that they could be part of the problem or part of the solution. Counselor Thornton said that everyone should stand up against bullying. "Friends don't let friends be bullied," she stated.

Pendleton County Schools Resource Officer Deputy Sheriff Jared Brewer told the students that if they were guilty of bullying behavior it was possible that they could be charged with a crime. "If you bully, then, I will bully you until it stops," said Officer Brewer.

Adult Community Education and One Stop Career Director JoEllen Mitchell discussed cyber bullying with the students. She said, "If you are being victimized you should gather the evidence and turn it over to the proper authorities."

College student and presenter Kaylen Price had created a great big poster that read, "BULLYING, IT STOPS NOW!" Many of the middle school six graders signed their name on the poster making a pledge not to bully. After they had signed the pledge each student was given a bracelet that said, "BE A BUDDY NOT A BULLY!" The giant poster now hangs on a wall in a hallway at Sharp Middle School.

PHI Air Medical launches support for Alcohol Awareness

PHI Air Medical announced to a community-wide effort to educate the community and raise awareness for Alcohol Awareness throughout the month of April, the month designated to bring information to the public on alcohol related issues.

"The fact that every 15 minutes, someone dies from an alcohol related accident or incident and that most of these are completely avoidable is something our company and crews do not take lightly," explains Erik Rohde, Regional Director for PHI Air Medical. "Our focus with the You Drink, You Drive, We Fly campaign this year is to be proactive in our communities. Our goal is to arm people of all ages and backgrounds with educational information, materials and support that will ultimately raise awareness for the prevention of these accidents."

The facts on alcohol abuse and alcoholism are alarming:

- 79,000 deaths are annually attributed to excessive alcohol use
- Alcoholism is the 3rd leading lifestyle-related cause of death in the nation
- Up to 40% of all hospital beds in the United States (except for those being used by maternity and intensive care patients) are being used to treat health conditions that are related to alcohol consumption
- 1 in 12 adults suffer from an alcohol abuse or dependence

"Our crews often respond to alcohol related driving scenes to provide critical care for these patients. We strongly believe PHI has a responsibility to provide support and education in the communities we serve," continued Rohde. "The best prevention is knowing what people can do to be proactive and help identify the signs and symptoms of alcohol abuse."

PHI Air Medical is committed to engaging and informing local communities on critical health related issues and aggressively supports several key initiatives throughout the year, including Breast Cancer Awareness, Women's Heart Health, Water Safety and Men's Health issues. Flight crews and professionals in communities across the country are dedicated to addressing these important issues by providing their time, educational materials and support through local events.

American cancer society offers Look Good... Feel Better

The American Cancer Society has teamed up with local cosmetologist in the Pendleton area to offer a Look Good...Feel Better class at 7 p.m. on Monday, April 9, for women who are undergoing cancer treatment.

The Look Good...Feel Better class, taught by trained cosmetologists, teaches women a variety of beauty techniques to enhance their appearance and boost their self-confidence. "When a woman has cancer, she has to deal with not only the trauma of the disease, but also the effects of cancer treatment on her general appearance," said Lisa Meier, Health Initiatives Representative for the American Cancer Society in Northern Kentucky. "I am so pleased that we have the opportunity to offer women in Pendleton County our program."

There are dozens of anti-cancer drugs in use today with side-effects that include hair loss on the scalp, eyebrows, or lashes, changes in skin pigmentation and texture, skin oiliness, itchiness or peeling and alterations in nail texture and growth rate.

The Look Good...Feel Better program helps women restore their appearance and self-image by teaching hands-on beauty and skincare techniques. Along with learning makeup techniques, women also learn how to disguise hair loss with wigs, scarves, turbans and other accessories. The American Cancer Society can also provide free wigs and turbans to those women undergoing treatment.

Women attending The Look Good...Feel Better class will receive complimentary cosmetics. Pre-registration is required. To make a reservation, contact Lisa Meier at 859-372-7881. To learn more about the Look Good...Feel Better class, call the American Cancer at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

Homemakers Club meets at Fields' home

Debbie Fields and Amy Whitaker were our hostesses for this month's meeting. After prayer and a devotional given by Debbie we had a wonderful dinner. The meeting was called to order by President Mary Lou Johnson and we got down to business. We discussed cleanup for Broadford Road. Anyone interested in helping, please be at Blanket Creek Baptist Church at 9 a.m. on April 14.

Information was given on the Heart Health Workshop and luncheon at the Extension office on February 14. Information was shared regarding the Waist Management Lifestyle Completion being held through Three Rivers Health Department and the Pendleton County Extension Service. We have a couple of members participating in this. Amy Whitaker gave the lesson and we started trying to write a short story about memories we had of growing up. Janice Fields will host next month's meeting. The lesson will be on meditation and breathing.

Please call the Extension office to find a club near you to attend. A lot of fun and learning is had by all.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) hereby gives notice to the public of its intent to reimburse eligible applicants for eligible costs to repair or replace facilities damaged by the severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds, and flooding occurring February 29, 2012 until March 3, 2012. This notice applies to the Public Assistance (PA), Individual Assistance (IA), and Hazard Mitigation Grant (HMGP) programs implemented under the authority of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 5121-5207.

Under a major disaster declaration FEMA-4057-DR-KY signed by the President on March 6, 2012, the following counties have been designated adversely affected by the disaster and eligible for IA: Bath, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Grayson, Johnson, Kenton, Larue, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Ohio, Pendleton, Rowan, Russell, Trimble, and Wolfe for PA: Grant, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, and Morgan. Additional counties may be designated at a later date without further public notice. The Hazard Mitigation Grant Program (HMGP) is available statewide.

This public notice concerns activities that may affect historic properties, activities that are located in or affect wetland areas or the 100-year floodplain, and critical actions within the 500-year floodplain. Such activities may adversely affect the historic property and floodplain or wetland, or may result in continuing vulnerability to flood damage.

Presidential Executive Orders 11988 and 11990 require that all federal actions in or affecting the floodplain or wetlands be reviewed for opportunities to relocate and evaluated for social, economic, historical, environmental, legal, and safety considerations. Where there is no opportunity to relocate, FEMA is required to undertake a detailed review to determine what measures may be taken to minimize future damages. The public is invited to participate in the process of identifying alternatives and analyzing their impacts.

FEMA has determined that for certain types of facilities there are normally no alternatives to restoration in the floodplain or wetland. These are facilities that meet all of the following criteria: 1) FEMA's estimate of the cost of repairs is less than 50% of the cost to replace the entire facility and is less than $100,000; 2) the facility is not located in a floodway; 3) the facility has not sustained major structural damage in a previous Presidentially declared flooding disaster or emergency; and 4) the facility is not critical (e.g., the facility is not a hospital, generating plant, emergency operations center, or a facility that contains dangerous materials). FEMA intends to provide assistance for the restoration of these facilities to their pre-disaster condition, except that certain measures to mitigate the effect of future flooding or other hazards may be included in the work. For example, a bridge or culvert restoration may include a larger waterway opening to decrease the risk of future washouts.

For routine activities, this will be the only public notice provided. Other activities and those involving facilities that do not meet the four criteria are required to undergo more detailed review, including study of alternate locations. Subsequent public notices regarding such projects will be published if necessary, as more specific information becomes available.

In many cases, an applicant may have started facility restoration before federal involvement. Even if the facility must undergo detailed review and analysis of alternate locations, FEMA will fund eligible restoration at the original location if the facility is functionally dependent on its floodplain location (e.g., bridges and flood control facilities), or the project facilitates an open space use, or the facility is an integral part of a larger network that is impractical or uneconomical to relocate, such as a road. In such cases, FEMA must also examine the possible effects of not restoring the facility, minimizing floodplain or wetland impacts, and determining both that an overriding public need for the facility clearly outweighs the Executive Order requirements to avoid the floodplain or wetland, and that the site is the only practicable alternative. Commonwealth of Kentucky and local officials will confirm to FEMA that proposed actions comply with all applicable state and local floodplain management and wetland protection requirements.

FEMA intends to provide IA program funding for disaster-related emergency housing. These actions may adversely affect a floodplain or wetland, or may result in continuing vulnerability to floods. These actions may include repair, restoration, or construction of housing or private bridges, purchase and placement of travel trailers or manufactured housing units, or repair of structures as minimum protective measures. This will be the only public notice concerning these actions.

FEMA also intends to provide HMGP funding to the Commonwealth of Kentucky to mitigate future disaster damages. These projects may include construction of new facilities, modification of existing, undamaged facilities, relocation of facilities out of floodplains, demolition of structures, or other types of projects to mitigate future disaster damages. In the course of developing project proposals, subsequent public notices will be published if necessary as more specific information becomes available.

The National Historic Preservation Act requires federal agencies to take into account the effect of their undertakings on historic properties. Those actions or activities affecting buildings, structures, districts or objects 50 years or older or that affect archeological sites or undisturbed ground will require further review to determine if the property is eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (Register). If the property is determined to be eligible for the Register and FEMA's undertaking will adversely affect it, FEMA will provide additional public notices. For historic properties not adversely affected by FEMA's undertaking, this will be the only public notice.

As noted, this may be the only public notice regarding the above-described actions under the PA, IA, and HMGP programs. Interested persons may obtain information about these actions or a specific project by writing to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Joint Field Office, 105 Sea Hero Road Suite 2, Frankfort, KY 40601 or by calling 502-848-4560. Comments should be sent in writing to Libby Turner, Federal Coordinating Officer, at the above address within 15 days of the date of this notice.

Mary Ellen Klaber, President of Falmouth Rotary, 2006

By Owen and Janice Collins

Mary Ellen's road to the Falmouth Rotary presidency began at the old Phoenix Hotel at the corner of Main and Shelby. White linen table cloths and napkins! Napkins large enough to cover the entire front of a suit, for Rotary had several elderly men at this time who tended to drop morsels on themselves as they ate. Owned and operated by the Ross sisters who never married, these ladies wore traditional black dresses, white collars and broaches...high style. And, the meal was the finest cuisine in Falmouth, cooked and served by the legendary Nellie Conrad.

This is where Falmouth Rotary met and L. H. Lutes was superintendent of the Falmouth City Schools and he liked to invite his daughter, Fernita Ann, and Mary Ellen Rule to present at least once a year a program on current events, modeled after the Weekly Reader. And, Rotarians were urged to quiz these two ladies after the presentation. Great education for these girls, and, this writer suggests, also for the Rotarians.

Mary Ellen attended the University of Kentucky for one year after high school graduation and taught in Gallatin County for a year on an emergency teaching certificate. She married Bill Klaber soon thereafter and moved to LaGrange, Ky. where Bill was herdsman for a cattle company. Traveling widely with this job,

MARY ELLEN KLABER

Bill went even to Scotland, as his company wanted the finest herd possible. Mary Ellen quipped, "I never doubted his faithfulness to me, for he was a man of strong family values, but when a cow entered the picture...I wasn't sure!" Mary Ellen smiled and I knew she was joking.

She stayed home to rear four children while Bill farmed and was magistrate in Pendleton County. Then she ran for circuit clerk and was elected, serving a six-year term.

Later she was picked to be a pretrial commissioner, a job which she performed efficiently and enjoyed for several years before retirement. I asked her what she did and she said that if a person was arrested, she would go to the jail the next day and have a conference with the detainee, determine the seriousness of the charge, and recommend to the judge the disposition of the case. She said, "I tried to treat them with courtesy and kindness, and I have had persons come up to me years later and express their appreciation for the way I treated them and handled their cases."

Even after retirement, Mary Ellen was persuaded by JoEllen Mitchell to work part time in Adult Basic Education and both of them joined Falmouth Rotary in 2001. And when Mary Ellen was asked to serve as president of our club, she readily accepted, indicating that such was indeed an honor to follow in the footsteps of her father, but she quickly added, "He would not have approved, for in his time, 'Women kept silent in church.'"

Mary Ellen said that the most impressive thing about our club is the degree to which the members pull together and work on fund raising and other projects. "Amazing cooperation!" she added.

She handled some ticklish issues with skill and style and helped the club divest itself of onerous turkey leg responsibility at the Wool Festival. Further, she promoted international giving and the club reached its highest level ever in contributions to the Rotary Foundation under her leadership. When she stepped down after her tenure, she said, "My father would have been proud of me!" And so are we!

LEGISLATIVE PERSPECTIVE ON KENTUCKY

State Representative
Tom McKee

When the General Assembly began the 2012 Regular Session in January, there was little doubt what its biggest challenge would be: writing a two-year budget that could continue meeting the state's critical needs in light of previous cuts totaling more than a billion dollars.

On Friday evening, after weeks of discussion and several late nights working on a compromise, the House and Senate put its support behind a spending plan that will go a long way to achieving that goal.

Even before final negotiations began, both chambers had already agreed in large measure with the budget Governor Beshear presented in the session's opening days. My legislative colleagues and I agree that, like any family during tough times, we must live within our means, and that we must limit debt as much as possible while still investing in those areas that will pay dividends long into the future.

As a result, this budget has no tax increases but no raises, either. With few exceptions, all three branches of government are taking the same 8.4 percent cut next fiscal year, which begins in July, and then maintaining that level of spending in the budget's second year.

The exceptions include classroom funding, which we have shielded as much as possible during this economic downturn, and other such areas as Medicaid, corrections, financial aid for college students, local prosecutors and services for veterans. Our social workers will actually see an increase in both money and staffing, in an effort to reduce the heavy caseloads they now have.

Last year's major reforms of Medicaid and our criminal justice system are beginning to show the financial savings we had hoped for. In Medicaid, that totals more than $300 million, while savings in corrections will allow us to give $9 million to counties to help with their jail costs and to use nearly $7 million to boost substance abuse programs many of our state prisoners need.

The budget includes a little more than $1 million to expand the veterans nursing home in Western Kentucky and gives approval to go ahead with a new veterans nursing home – which would be the state's fourth – if the federal government approves.

There is additional assistance for both the Kentucky Horse Park and the Kentucky Fair Board, which has been hit hard because of such things as the closure of the Kentucky Kingdom amusement park in Louisville. Design work for renovating Rupp Arena can continue as well, and our state parks will get $6 million for additional maintenance.

In agricultural matters, there are no cuts in the 164 slots available for Kentucky students wanting to become veterinarians. Because Kentucky doesn't have its own veterinary school, the state helps cover out-of-state tuition costs for students who want to join that profession.

The budget also includes $4 million to lay the groundwork for replacing a veterinary center in Western Kentucky. This center, like the one at the University of Kentucky, plays a critical role in protecting our farm animals from disease.

In another matter, the House and Senate didn't hesitate to help victims of the March 2nd tornadoes. Those affected by these storms – including those in Pendleton and Campbell counties – will now be able to get a rebate of the sales tax paid for purchases of building materials. Schools in these areas will also not lose any funding because of days they had to miss.

Although it doesn't affect our region directly, the budget also lays the groundwork for a new scholarship program that will help students in coal-producing counties obtain their four-year college degree. The money will come from coal-severance dollars these counties receive for economic development projects.

While the budget is now awaiting Gov. Beshear's signature, there is still some work left to be done on the legislative session's last day, April 12th. Normally, we would use that time just to consider any vetoes the governor might issue, but we will also finalize our road plan that day and, hopefully, give final approval to a major initiative that would limit prescription drug abuse.

In addition to the budget, there were numerous other accomplishments this legislative session, but I will have to detail those in a later column.

SEN. KATIE STINE REVIEWS KENTUCKY CONGRESSIONAL WEEK

State Sen.
Katie Stine

We have completed 59 days of the 60 day session, the last day, April 12, is reserved for considering the Governor's vetoes, if any.

By far, working on the state's two-year budget was the most pressing issue this week. After several late nights, we reached consensus on the $19.4 billion budget with the House negotiators a little before 3 a.m. on Thursday. It was a hard-fought point but for the first time in recent memory, Kentucky will not bond for current expenses. The Senate insisted on minimizing using one-time resources for recurring operating costs. This puts us in a better fiscal position and if the economy improves, the state will reach that better day quicker. If our revenues suffer and the national economy continues to founder, Kentucky is prepared to weather the storm.

During the budget negotiations with the House, we resolved to keep our belt tightened regardless of the pressures. There are many good and worthwhile programs that we would have loved to have funded but the fact is, we simply could not afford them because we do not have the dollars. So, we did the best we could and made the same sorts of decisions occurring around kitchen tables across the commonwealth. This final budget includes those unavoidable 8.4% cuts for most state agencies that the Governor recommended, with exemptions for critical areas like Medicaid and Corrections. State universities will see a 6.4% reduction, and K-12 schools will receive full base-line funding. State employees will receive no raises. The Governor is required to find $40 million a year in efficiencies. We also significantly reduced the state's structural imbalance to under $200 million. The final budget contains less debt than either the Governor or the House proposed and more money in the Rainy Day Fund which will improve our bond picture. The state's six-year road plan which includes $3.7 billion over the next biennium for the repair and maintenance of Kentucky's roads is still being considered in a conference committee.

We also wanted to continue preparing Kentucky for a stronger, more prosperous future. House Bill 495 provides a solution for paying the interest to the Federal Government on Kentucky's unemployment insurance loan of $960 million and putting our fund on a sustainable path. In order to repay the loan, the House proposed a $21 per employee annual surcharge to prevent a $400 per employee Federal penalty. The Senate added language that provides our businesses an unemployment insurance tax decrease to help recover their costs. Once the debt is repaid and the trust fund is over $200 million, state tax increases in current law will be deferred to enable our businesses to do what they do best – create jobs.

House Bill 300 changes the make-up of the board of the Kentucky state employee retirement system by placing term limits on the board and staggering the terms of the board members, requiring investment placement agents to register as executive branch lobbyists and requiring a state audit every five years. This will add transparency and accountability to the process. I wish that we could encourage the House to really address this ticking time bomb because over time, almost all of our state's revenues will have to be used to honor these pension obligations unless we make a change.

Finally, my shared use school bill passed both chambers and is ready for the Governor to sign it. This will encourage better use of school facilities during non school hours and provide a place for the community to exercise and meet.

The Senate will convene for a final day on Thursday, April 12. Please call me toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 if you would like to share your thoughts or visit us at www.lrc.ky.gov to learn more about the work we have done so far.

Local tragedy results in bill

The Kentucky Senate approved a bill Friday, March 30 that would require potential residents at personal care homes to be screened for brain injuries by medical professionals.

Senate Bill 115 came about after Larry Lee, a brain-injured resident of the Falmouth Nursing Home in Pendleton County, disappeared only to be found dead four weeks later on the banks of the Licking River.

The bill is waiting for Governor Steve Beshear's signature or veto.

Kentucky joins prescription drug program

PROGRAM IS DESIGNED TO SHARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG DISPENSING DATA WITH OTHER STATES

Kentucky will sign an agreement to share and receive prescription drug dispensing data with at least 20 other states, which will help the state monitor prescription drug abuse, Governor Steve Beshear announced today.

The Kentucky All Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting (KASPER) program has joined the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy's Prescription Monitoring Program InterConnect (PMP InterConnect), which facilitates the transfer of information to authorized users in other states. Specifically, the PMP InterConnect links participating programs to provide a more effective means of combating drug diversion and drug abuse nationwide.

"The blight of prescription drug abuse is tearing our families and communities apart, and we must use every tool available to attack this deadly scourge on our state," said Gov. Beshear. "One of our key strategies is sharing information with surrounding states, so that we can not only cut off access to abusers, but also identify the problem prescribers."

KASPER is currently administered through the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS). Twenty states have already agreed to participate in the InterConnect program, and more are in discussions with program administrators.

"We are very proud of the success of our KASPER program and feel it is one of the most effective tools available for tracking drug abuse, misuse and diversion within the state of Kentucky," said Acting CHFS Secretary Eric Friedlander. "However, we have a tremendous need to share and receive data from other states, particularly our border states. Joining the InterConnect will dramatically strengthen our ability to monitor and detect abuse."

The need for prescription drug abuse tracking and surveillance is great, particularly in Kentucky, which has the highest rate of opioid abuse in the country, according to a recent report from the Kentucky State Epidemiological Outcomes Workgroup. In Kentucky, prescription drug deaths have begun to outnumber the amount of deaths attributed to motor vehicle accidents.

PMP InterConnect will enhance the benefits of the KASPER system by providing the means for Kentucky prescribers and pharmacists to more easily identify patients with prescription drug abuse and misuse problems, especially if that patient is crossing state lines to obtain those drugs. Kentucky law enforcement and regulatory agencies will have access to the information as well to assist in the investigation of illegal drug abuse and diversion of controlled substances across state lines.

Several states, including Kentucky, currently allow a prescriber, dispenser or law enforcement officer from another state to register and obtain access to their prescription monitoring program. However, due to the effort required to establish and maintain separate accounts with each state and review multiple reports and formats, only a limited number of practitioners and law enforcement officers have done so.

"The reality is drug abusers and diverters are not obtaining these drugs only in Kentucky and we need tools that provide a broader understanding of where and when drugs are being obtained," said CHFS Inspector General Mary Begley. "We are very excited to join the PMP InterConnect and look forward to the rewards of this partnership."

"KASPER - as well as all other states' prescription monitoring programs - would be more effective if data included all controlled substance prescriptions for a patient regardless of the state in which they were dispensed," said Dave Hopkins, who coordinates the KASPER program. "In fact, this is something our KASPER users have asked for and overwhelmingly support."

The National Association of Boards of Pharmacy (NABP) is paying for all costs associated with the development and implementation of the PMP InterConnect.

as well as five years of annual fees for each participating state prescription drug monitoring program.

Legislative Efforts Underway
Gov. Beshear supports legislative efforts to attack prescription drug abuse. House Bill 4 (HB 4), sponsored by Speaker Greg Stumbo, would significantly expand the reach of the Kentucky All Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting (KASPER) by requiring all prescription providers to register and use the system. The bill also creates new standards for information sharing among licensure boards and investigators, and requires regular data review of KASPER reports to root out unusually high prescribing rates for further investigation.

Senate Bill 2 (SB 2), sponsored by Sen. Jimmy Higdon, focuses on pain management clinics. The bill would require that these facilities be owned by a physician and properly licensed.

Education, Interstate Cooperation Efforts Continue
Last fall, Gov. Beshear announced that the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded a $60,000 grant to Operation UNITE, a regional anti-drug initiative in 29 southern and eastern Kentucky counties. The ARC has directed the grant be used to support several educational summits across the state for physicians and dispensers.

Gov. Beshear and Attorney General Conway will coordinate the summits that will be held in the coming months. Operation UNITE, a state drug initiative, expects these summits will train approximately 1,000 health care providers.

Kentucky also hosted the first meeting of a new Interstate Prescription Drug Abuse Task Force this summer. The task force is composed of representatives from Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Tennessee and includes representatives from government, law enforcement, health care, and advocacy groups. The group is developing ways states can work together to choke off the so-called "pill pipeline" of illegal prescription drugs streaming into those states from the south.

in almost every course. As a varsity basketball player throughout high school, he was named to the PNC KY High School Athletic Academic All State First Team in 2010-11. One of Bryan's teachers stated that "he would be successful in college because of his commitment to excellence in the classroom. He genuinely wants to leave a legacy that will inspire those that follow him to be their best. He is a compassionate leader, demonstrating honesty, setting an example and a commitment to excellence in character."

Bryan indicated that he wanted to become an educator so that he could influence the young minds of the future. He stated, "My education is one of the most important aspects of my life, and I am determined to graduate from college to represent not only my family, but my high school as well." Bryan plans to attend Northern Kentucky University and major in math education. He would enjoy teaching at his alma mater and perhaps coaching boys' high school basketball. Bryan is grateful for the educators who have been very influential in his life.

The Sharp Family and the Class of 1962 Scholarships were established by Dr. and Mrs. Philip Sharp in 2011. The purpose of the scholarships is to encourage and aid students who graduate from Pendleton High School to attend a four-year resident college or university and to major in science, mathematics, engineering or a related major. The scholarships are valued at $6,000 per year and will continue for a total commitment of $24,000 over a four-year period for each student.

Dr. Sharp, a Pendleton County native, was the recipient of the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine in 1993. He cofounded Biogen, Idec and Alnylam Pharmaceuticals, an early-stage therapeutics company. He is currently an Institute Professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, MA, where he is known as a world leader of research in molecular biology and biochemistry.

Hutcherson of "Hunger Games" to toss Reds pitch

Happy Reds' games! A star of the hit movie "The Hunger Games" will throw out the ceremonial first pitch for the Miami Marlins-Cincinnati Reds game April 7.

Josh Hutcherson is a native of nearby Union, Ky., featured in the new movie about teens fighting each other to death in a bleak future. It opened last weekend with a $152.5 million box office, third-biggest ever.

Meanwhile, a Cincinnati-area resident with experience in a less-gory competition between youths will sing the National Anthem before the night game. Eben Franckewitz (EE'-bin FRAYN-kuh-witz) was a contestant on this season's "American Idol."

The Reds in recent years have followed Cincinnati's traditional Opening Day celebrations with promotions for their second, "Opening Night" game. Reds players will walk a red carpet to greet fans before the game.

School and Sharp Middle School. The move would have eliminated a teaching position. During the meeting, eight adults and four high students asked the board to consider a way to help save the teaching position. At the conclusion of the audience comments section, the board members all thanked those that spoke for attending and for their support of the program.

Board member and Vice Chairperson Steve Thomas in his remarks commented about the financial issues that have faced the district. "Last fall I received a call about a newspaper story saying we had a negative end of year balance. I called our board attorney and asked him if this was correct? We, as a board, had to make some changes and now we have asked Mr. Strong to help lead us in improving our school district."

During the superintendent's comment, Strong addressed the concerns of those present. "There are two issues that concern me with our music program, first is the number of students requesting the courses and second is why, have we done something to cause students not to take the courses?"

Strong plans to look further into the situation and explore options to make the two music positions district wide. He will form a committee to look at the overall music program in Pendleton County Schools.

During the time that the committee is looking into the programs, the middle and high schools would get at least the one position they had been allocated and possibly more. How the rest of the time would be spent by the teachers will be determined by the superintendent after the committee has completed its work and in consultation with the board.

"This will help us look at our program, but we all must understand as we move forward looking at our budget, if we make a change in our allocation it will affect something else in the budget," Strong told board members as he concluded his remarks.

Veteran license bill signed

Governor Steve Beshear signed into law a bill allowing veterans to have their status included on new and renewed driver licenses on March 29.

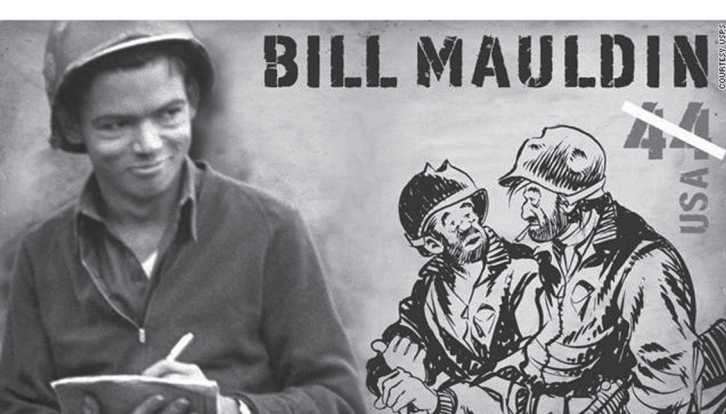

Veterans frequently seek official government identification recognizing them as veterans. Only veterans who retire from the military or who are 100 percent service-connected disabled are eligible for military identification cards. The vast majority of Kentucky's veterans do not fall into those two categories. Although a military discharge document, known as a DD-214, should be sufficient proof of veteran status, many businesses and organizations that offer discounts to veterans do not realize it is a valid form of veteran ID. The new law offering veterans a "Veteran" designation on a new or renewed driver's license solves that problem.

Beginning July 15, when you renew your driver's license or get a new one you can show your DD-214 to the Circuit Court Clerk and request a "Veteran" designation on the license.

World War II cartoonist Bill Maudlin gets a stamp

Many may not recognize the name Bill Maudlin who was an enlisted man during World War II and a kid cartoonist for Stars and Stripes, a military newspaper, but he is an important piece of American history. So much so dled in his hands. Sadly the end of Maudlin's life was a difficult one. He had been scalded in a bathtub, an accident which led to terrible injuries and infections. Added to this, Alzheimers was inflicting its that the United States Postal Service is honoring him with a stamp picturing him drawing his muddy, exhausted, whisker-stubble infantrymen creations Willie and Joe. The two weary soldiers were Maudlin's voice of truth telling the rest of the world what it was like on the front lines.

Maudlin and his work meant so much to the millions of Americans who fought in World War II and to those who waited at home. One would have to be part of a combat infantry unit to truly appreciate what moments of relief he gave to his fellow soldiers. An enlisted man himself, his gripes were their gripes, his laughs their laughs and their heartaches his heartaches. He was one of them and they loved him for it.

However not every soldier appreciated his humor. When his cartoons cut too close for comfort, superior officers would try to tone him down. On one occasion he enraged Gen. George S. Patton, who informed Maudlin that he wanted his cartoons to stop. Fortunately a fan of his out-ranked the irritated Patton. Five-star Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sent forth the word that Maudlin draws what Maudlin wants. That battle went to Maudlin hands down.

Maudlin, by the time he was 23 years old, had won the Pulitzer Prize, was featured on the cover of Time magazine and had a best-seller titled "Up Front." Even so, he never lost his boyish grin and never outgrew his excitement for doing his job. He never acted uppity or haughty, but walked the halls of The Chicago Sun-Times with the humility of a copyboy.

Bill won a second Pulitzer Prize and some say should have won a third for his greatest editorial cartoon on the day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. It was that of the Lincoln Memorial with Lincoln slumped forward in grief with his head cradled in his hands.

waiting list. They came bearing relics of their youth and many dressed in garrison caps or uniforms over fifty years old. Many wept as they filed down the corridors like pilgrims coming to greet their hero.

Maudlin died at age 81 in the early days of 2003 and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery. He has now made it onto a first-class postage stamp. He's been attributed an honor most generals and admirals never receive. In life he was loved and in death he is remembered with honor.

HIGHLIGHTS

Celebrate 2012 World Health Day

The topic of World Health Day in 2012 is ageing and health with the theme "Good health adds life to years." The focus is how good health throughout life can help older men and women lead full and productive lives and be a resource for their families and communities. Ageing concerns each and every one of us-whether young or old, male or female, rich or poor-no matter where we live.

WHO has dedicated World Health Day 2012 to road safety. Worldwide, nearly 1.2 million people are killed in road traffic crashes every year and about 20 million to 50 million more are injured or disabled. These injuries account for 2.1% of global mortality and 2.6% of all disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) lost worldwide.

In 1948, the World Health Organization (WHO) held the First World Health Assembly and it was decided to celebrate April 7 of each year, with effect from 1950, as the World Health Day. This day is held to mark WHO's founding, and is seen as an opportunity by the organization to draw worldwide attention to a subject of major importance to global health each year. The WHO organizes international, regional and local events on the Day related to a particular theme. Resources provided continue beyond April 7, that is, the designated day for celebrating the World Health Day.

World Health Day is acknowledged by various governments and non-governmental organizations with interests in public health issues, who also organize activities and highlight their support in media reports, such as through press releases issued in recent years by U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton and the Global Health Council.

Life expectancy is going up in most countries, meaning more and more people live longer and enter an age when they may need health care. Meanwhile birth rates are generally falling. Countries and health care systems will need to find innovative and sustainable ways to cope with the demographic shift.

In the past few weeks the articles on Kentucky women have been provided in celebration of March being Women's History Month. As the contribution of women to Kentucky history was far too great to be contained in a mere four articles there must be at least one more carried over into April. For the grand finale, we will have a look at the more fun contributions from our Kentucky ladies. Some were naughty and some were nice and in their own way all of the ladies in this article were entertaining.

Alice Hegan Rice, also known as Alice Caldwell Hegan, (1870-1942), of Shelbyville, wrote over two dozen books. The most famous of these being Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. The book was a best seller in 1902 and is set in Louisville where she then lived. It was made into a successful play in 1903, and there were three Hollywood movie versions of it. The best known is the 1934 film that starred Pauline Lord and W.C. Fields. In 1902, Alice married fellow writer and poet Cale Young Rice. The two built a house at St. James Court in Old Louisville, which is still standing, collaborated on several books and cofounded the Louisville Arts Club. Despite her fame, Alice Hegan Rice continued her volunteerism and social work in Louisville. She was on the first board of the Cabbage Patch Settlement House, which was established in 1910, and she even served at the Camp Zachary Taylor hospital, during World War I.

Entertainment and pleasure from Kentucky women then and now

Enid Yandell (1870-1934) was an American sculptor who completed degrees in chemistry and art at Hampton College in Louisville. She was one of a group of women sculptors known as the White Rabbits. In 1894, Yandell went to Paris, where she studied with Frederick William MacMonnies and other instructors at the Academie Vitti in Montparnasse. She returned to Paris frequently, maintaining a studio there and exhibiting at the Paris Salon. Sculptures by Yandell include a nine-foot statue of Daniel Boone which was commissioned by the Filson Club of Louisville and the Wheelmen's Bench erected 1897 by Ky. Div. of League of American Wheelmen to honor cycling pioneer A.D. Ruff (1827-96) of Owingsville, Ky. In addition to her work as an artist, Yandell was committed to improving the lives of others. She contributed to the education of future artists by founding the Branstock School in Massachusetts, in 1908. She also worked with Appui Aux Artists, an organization which provided affordable meals for those involved in the arts and their families. Yandell was an active supporter of women's suffrage and campaigned for the election of President Calvin Coolidge.

Patty Thum (1853-1926) was Kentucky's first well-known female artist. Patty graduated from Vassar College and studied under William Merit Chase in New York City. She returned to Louisville, her birthplace, during the mid-1870s where she maintained a studio and painted landscapes, still lifes, and portraits. She also established a reputation as a book illustrator. Patty was considered one of the best painters of flowers, especially roses, of her period.

Rosemary Clooney (1928-2002) was a singer and actress, born in Maysville, who came to prominence in the early 1950s with the novelty hit "Come On-a My House." Clooney's career languished in the 1960s, partly due to problems related to depression and drug addiction, but revived in 1974, when her White Christmas co-star Bing Crosby asked her to appear with him at a show marking his 50th anniversary in show business. She continued recording until her death in 2002. She was the aunt of Academy Award winning actor George Clooney.

Loretta Webb Lynn (1935- ) is a country music singer-songwriter, author and philanthropist. Born in Butcher Hollow to a coal miner father, Lynn married at 14 years old, was a mother soon after, and moved to Washington with her husband, Oliver Vanetta Lynn Jr., nicknamed "Doo." Their experiences together became inspiration for her music. On her 18th birthday, Lynn's husband bought her a $17 Harmony guitar. She taught herself to play and when she was 24, on her wedding anniversary, Doo encouraged her to become a singer. She became a part of the country music scene in Nashville in the 1960s, and in 1967 charted her first of 16 number-one-hits. Lynn has written over 160 songs and released 70 albums. Her best-selling 1976 autobiography was made into an Academy Award winning film, Coal Miner's Daughter. She was the first female country singer to receive a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame in 1977.

Let us not close out our look at Kentucky women without at least a mention of a woman some might choose to forget. Fornightly or nice, they all make up our history.

BELLE BREZING

Belle Brezing (1860-1940) was a nationally known madam in Lexington at the end of the 19th century and into the beginning of the 20th. Brezing is believed to have been the model for Belle Watling in Gone with the Wind. Her first job in a brothel was December 24, 1879 in a house maintained by Jenny Hill, which has the distinction of being the former residence of first lady, Mary Todd Lincoln. She began her career when she, at age 19, found herself unable to care for her young daughter. Within just two years, Belle had succeeded in her chosen profession enough to strike out on her own. She was well known as the madam of one of the finest "houses" in the South. Belle had been the queen of Lexington's "red light district" at the turn of the century and reached the status of a local folk legend. In Lexington's Victorian Era prostitution was an accepted part of community life. So much so that city directories of that period marked each of the practicing madams' names and addresses with "M" alongside other "legitimate" businesses. One of the reasons for this surprising acceptance of such practice had to do with the lack of birth control. Wives of that time, after having borne a certain number of children, would take separate bedrooms from their husbands and gladly tolerate their visits to prostitutes to free themselves from further suffering in childbirth. Belle was reported to be an extremely sharp, but fair businesswoman, and was known for her generosity to charitable causes in the community. She ended her career in 1917 and managed to live off of her investments until her death on August 22, 1940.

We began our look into the history of Kentucky women with Rebecca Boone, our first resident white woman, and continued with how Kentucky women contributed to education, medicine and government and entertainment. Besides these named in these five articles there are many unnamed women who have given much through their suffering, sacrifice and bold determination to the growth and betterment of our commonwealth. A heritage women of today can look upon with great pride and use as a powerful catalyst for us to make our own contribution to what will one day be our history.

Alcoholism characteristics effects and symptoms

Alcohol abuse is a disease that is characterized by the sufferer having a pattern of drinking excessively despite the negative effects of alcohol on the individual's work, medical, legal, educational, and/or social life. There are a multitude of negative psychological effects of alcohol dependence, including depression and antisocial behaviors. It affects about 10% of women and 20% of men in the United States, most beginning by their mid teens. Most people who ever have an episode of drinking too much tend to do so for the first time by the time they are in their mid teens. Almost 2,000 people under 21 years of age die each year in car crashes in which underage drinking is involved. Alcohol is involved in nearly half of all violent deaths involving teens. Most people who develop dependence on alcohol do so between 18 and 25 years of age. Alcohol, especially when consumed in excess, can affect teens, women, men, and the elderly quite differently. Effects of alcohol abuse and alcoholism on families can include increased domestic violence. The effects that parental alcoholism can have on children can be significantly detrimental in other ways as well.

Alcohol dependence has no one single cause and is not directly passed from one generation to another genetically. Rather, it is the result of a complex group of genetic, psychological, and environmental factors. Alcoholism is a destructive pattern of alcohol use that includes a number of symptoms, including tolerance to or withdrawal from the substance, using more alcohol and/or for a longer time than planned, and trouble reducing its use. Risk factors for developing a drinking problem include low self-esteem, depression, anxiety or another mood problem, as well as having parents with alcoholism.

The long-term effects of alcohol abuse and alcoholism can be devastating and even life threatening. Chronic excessive alcohol consumption can negatively affect virtually every organ system. Specific examples of alcohol-abuse effects on the body include everything from general effects like poor coordination, thiamine deficiency, and other forms of poor nutrition, cardiovascular effects like hypertension and irregular heartbeat, reproductive effects like impotence and irregular menses, as well as gastrointestinal problems like cirrhosis of the liver and pancreatitis. Alcohol-abuse effects on the brain include, but are by no means limited to, strokes, confusion, and amnesia.

The most common diseases associated with liver cancer are chronic viral hepatitis, alcoholism, and cirrhosis (scarring of the liver). Moreover, chronic viral hepatitis is common in alcoholism, and both viral hepatitis and alcoholism cause cirrhosis which usually precedes the development of cancer. Therefore, the contributions and interrelationships of alcohol abuse, viral hepatitis, and cirrhosis in the development of liver cancer are complex.

Signs of alcohol intoxication include the smell of alcohol on the breath or skin, glazed or bloodshot eyes, the person being unusually passive or argumentative, and/or a deterioration in the person's appearance or hygiene. Alcoholism is a destructive pattern of alcohol use that includes a number of symptoms, including tolerance to or withdrawal from the substance, using more alcohol and/or for a longer time than planned, and trouble reducing its use.

While some people with alcohol dependence can cut back or stop drinking without help, most are only able to do so temporarily unless they get treatment. Individuals who consume alcohol in lower amounts and tend to cope with problems more directly are more likely to be successful in their efforts to cut back or stop drinking without the benefit of treatment. It is fair to say that low intake, along the lines of 4-8 ounces of wine per day, is likely safe.

More than balls and strikes for Southern first grade students

The first grade students at Southern Elementary had an exciting day on Friday, March 2. They celebrated exceeding their MAP testing goals as a grade level with a baseball theme party.

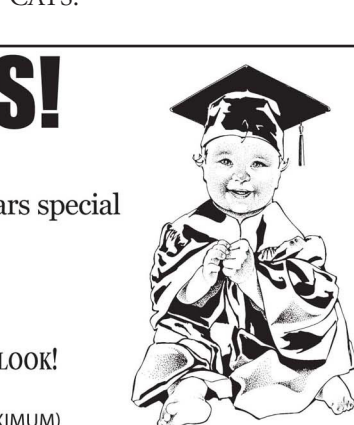

Four Wildcat baseball players and two Wildcat baseball support staff took time from their busy senior schedules to congratulate the first grade students on their goals. The seniors spoke to each classroom about the importance of setting goals and trying your best to reach them, being student athletes and answered questions. Each student enjoyed hotdogs, popcorn and bubble gum. They also received a Wildcat Baseball autograph book.

There was a bubble gum blowing contest, autograph signing and chicken dancing in the hall! These seniors are obviously about more than "Balls and Strikes."

Thank you to PTO president Amy Hall and her volunteers for helping with the hotdogs and popcorn. All the first graders say thank you and GO PC WILD-CATS!

Senior third baseman Austin Reed rips one versus Harrison County.

Wildcats win two in busy week

While the first two weeks of the season saw the Cats waiting and cancelling games because of weather, this past week was a busy game-filled week. Wildcats Coach Josh Hamm had to cancel the Cats game with St. Patrick on Thursday, to fall in line with the KHSAA rule that no team can play four days or more in a row.

Monday and Tuesday was district match-up as the Cats battled Harrison County to a closer than the score indicated, 7-1 loss, to the Breds but followed it up with a 9-1 trouncing of Deming.

Wednesday they traveled to Bellevue where they pulled out a 5-2 victory behind the strong pitching of Tyler Daugherty. Friday they hosted Montgomery County where a fourth inning offensive explosion by the Indians propelled them to a 10-1 victory.

The Cats stand 3-3 for the season with a full slate of games this week. Last night, they traveled to Williamstown but results were not available at press time. Tuesday, they host Bracken County in a V/JV double-header. First pitch at 5:30. Tomorrow the freshmen Wildcats host Nicholas County in a DH and Thursday the Varsity Cats are back on their home field versus Grant County.

They finish the week traveling to Frankfort for a V/JV doubleheader and then to Henry County on Saturday to play Eminence in a Varsity DH.

Freshmen lefthander, Josh Brown, started the week off strong, baffling the Breds with changing speeds and location. In his first four innings, he held the powerful Harrison County lineup to two runs, five hits and one walk while striking out three. But they figured him out in the fifth and scored two runs to run the 2-1 lead out to 4-1.

Dustin Wanner came in relief followed by Brady Purdy and Hunter Lea.

Offensively, the Cats scored their only run in their half of the first. Brent Jacob flared a single to right, advanced to second on an error by the pitcher and came across the plate on the RBI single by Evan Spicer.

Brent Jacob dominated Deming as he struck out half the batters he faced with 13 K's in the 26 batters in the complete game victory.

"Brent changed speeds and kept the Deming hitters off-balanced," Coach Hamm commented on the dominating performance as many Deming hitters were dodging Brent's curve only to see it cross the plate as a strike.

Bellevue was another dominating pitching performance as junior Tyler Daugherty went the whole way without giving up a run. The Tigers did dent the scoreboard twice but both runs were unearned.

Dustin Wanner had the "ESPN Sportscenter" catch in the outfield, coming a long way to make a spectacular catch.

Jared Rering made his first appearance on the mound for the season versus Montgomery County and for three innings he held them in check. He also scored the Cats only run as he singled in the second, came to third on Seth Courtney's double to right field. Jared would score on a wild pitch.

The JV Cats played twice during the week and won both. They scored five in the first against Harrison County and Trevor Turner dominated from the mound. He pitched both innings and allowed only one hit while striking out a Bred batter.

Against Deming, the Cats gave up an early run but came back to post four of their own in the 4-1 victory. Jonah Smith pitched all three innings to pick up his second victory of the season.

Pendleton County tennis team loses to Campbell County

By Bruce Reller, Jr., Reporter
The Pendleton County High School tennis team went on the road to take on Campbell County last Monday, March 26. The Cats were involved in a lot of close matches.

"We did not win our match with Campbell," Pendleton County head coach Celeste Lehr said.

Blake Scott was involved in a couple of winning matches. He won 6-3, 6-4 in singles and he and Jarred Cox won their doubles match 6-1.

Senior Paige Antrobus played a tough singles match and lost 4-8. Also, in doubles, senior Brittany Teegarden and her doubles partner lost their match 3-6, 4-6.

Ladycats drop three more games, remain winless this season

By Sam McClanahan, Reporter
The Ladycats hoped to notch their first win of the season last week, but came up short in three contests and fell to 0-5 after two weeks of play. Last Monday, the 'Cats were shut out at home by Holmes in a 10-0 final. The next day, they traveled to Montgomery County and were thumped 19-0. The Ladycats concluded the week at Newport and fell by a final of 12-1 in five innings.

This week, the Ladycats are scheduled to play just one game, a 5:30 matchup this evening at Owen County.

Members of the Ladycat coaching staff were unavailable for comment regarding the completed games.

Wright wins March Madness Contest

Well, you can turn out the lights because the party's over in The Falmouth Outlook's NCAA March Madness Contest. The winner has already been decided!

Currently, James R. Wright leads the pack with 79 points followed by Sue Simpson and Mil-dred Wright with 78 points each. Next comes Teresa Rarriek and Jim Sharpe checking in with 77 points.

But, no matter who wins the championship game, whether it be Kentucky or Kansas, James R. Wright has secured the top spot for this year.

Congratulations James!

Kentucky plays for National Title

On the heels of a 69-61 win over in-state rival Louisville, Kentucky advanced to the national championship game for the 11th time in school history and the first time since the Cats won the 1998 national championship.

Anthony Davis tallied his 20th double-double with 18 points and 14 rebounds while adding five blocked shots.

Darius Miller (13) and Doron Lamb (10) also scored in double-figures for the Wildcats, while Marquis Teague dished out a game-high five assists.

The Wildcats shot 57.1 percent from the field, while holding Louisville to just 34.8 percent.

This is the 27th meeting between Kentucky and Kansas. Kentucky is 20-6 all-time against Kansas.

The last meeting in the series came earlier this season when the Wildcats defeated the Jayhawks 75-65 in the Champions Classic in Madison Square Garden.

Kansas has won three of the last four in the series.

John Calipari collected his first win against the Jayhawks in the win in November. However his most memorable game against Kansas came in the 2008 NCAA title game while he was with Memphis.

Kentucky-Kansas Connections
Kentucky head coach John Calipari cut his teeth in Lawrence, Kan., beginning his coaching career at Kansas as a volunteer assistant coach. He also served as an assistant coach at Kansas from 1983-85.

UK assistant coach John Robic began his career at Kansas. He was a graduate assistant in Lawrence, Kan., for the 1987-88 season.

Former Jayhawk Danny Manning is a current member of KU's staff, as an assistant coach. He played at KU from 1985-88, facing UK three times during his career. The Jayhawks were 1-2 during that time.

Jayhawk assistant Kurtis Townsend played his college ball at Western Kentucky. Townsend also was a point guard for the Hilltoppers, guiding the team to the 1980 OVC title. He later was an assistant at Eastern Kentucky in nearby Richmond.

Memorable UK-Kansas Games

- Dec. 14, 1959 - Playing on the road for the fourth straight game, the Cats snapped their two-game losing streak with a 77-72 overtime win in Lawrence. Ned Jennings led UK with 21 points, while KU star Wayne Hightower had 33 points and 14 rebounds.

- Dec. 9, 1978 - After forcing overtime, the Cats were down 66-60 with 31 seconds to go when Dwight Anderson scored back-to-back baskets, then stole the inbounds pass and fed Kyle Macy for the tying jumper. Macy completed the comeback by adding a technical free throw when Kansas called a timeout it didn't have. The Wildcats won the game 67-66.

- Dec. 12, 1981 - Derrick Hord had five points in overtime as UK defeated Kansas at home for the fourth consecutive time, 77-74. Jim Master had 27 points, while Hord finished with 13.

- Dec. 31, 1984 - Unranked Kentucky gave one of its best performances of the season, defeating No. 12 Kansas, 92-89, in Freedom Hall. Kenny Walker had 36 points and 19 rebounds, while Jayhawk Danny Manning led KU with 30 points.

- Dec. 16, 1989 - UK's last trip to Lawrence ended in the second-worst loss in Wildcat history and the worst in modern history. A highly motivated Jayhawk team coached by Roy Williams forced Rick Pitino's debut Wildcat team into 27 turnovers and a 150-95 loss.

- March 14, 1999 - After defeating Kansas 63-45 in earlier in the season, defending NCAA champs Kentucky faced off with the Jayhawks in NCAA second-round action in New Orleans. Behind a 29-point, 10-rebound effort from Scott Padgett, UK overcame a five-point deficit with 1:29 left in regulation to beat Kansas 92-88 in overtime. Down 79-74, UK forced OT when Wayne Turner sank two free throws and Padgett drained a three-pointer from the top of the key. It was all Padgett in overtime as the Louisville native hit a jumper and five free throws to secure the win. KU's Ryan Robertson had a game-high 31 points.

By: Mark Sheldon via ESPN.com

Following a string of aggressive winter transactions, the Reds felt like the key parts of their roster were perfectly planned out.

A blockbuster trade with the Padres brought Mat Latos, who joined the rotation. Free agent Ryan Madson fell in their laps late and became the dependable closer. Lefty Sean Marshall was to be the lockdown guy for the eighth inning and Ryan Ludwick the extra bat for the outfield. It all added up to make the Reds a popular pick to win the National League Central.

Terrible news came on March 24 when Madson learned his season was over before it could begin. A torn ligament meant he would need Tommy John surgery.

"That hurts to lose Madson," Reds manager Dusty Baker said. "The best laid plans of mice and men, right?"

Since the Reds can't win a division title with the best offseason, they can't lose it during Spring Training -- even without the services of Madson, who was signed to a one-year $8.5 million contract, money that cannot be recouped.

"I think we have a good team, without a doubt," Reds third baseman Scott Rolen said. "I talk about on paper all the time and on paper, we have a very good team. I hope that everybody, in the attempt to be positive, doesn't downplay the loss of Ryan Madson because he's one of the best closers in the game, to his credit."

Cincinnati's bullpen, one of the biggest strengths coming in, will begin a little short. Besides Madson, right-handed setup man Nick Masset will start the season on the disabled list because of a sore shoulder. Masset isn't expected to miss much time, however.

Marshall, one of the best setup men the last two seasons with the Cubs, appears to be the de-facto closer -- although a final decision has not been revealed.

Cincinnati, which did not defend its 2010 NL Central title by finishing third last season with 79 wins, feels it still has enough weapons to contend well against the defending World Series champion Cardinals and the pitching-rich Brewers.

"I think our depth is strong," said first baseman Joey Votto, the Reds' offensive leader. "I think we've got a competitive player at every position. At nearly every position, we have a potential All-Star. I think we have several starting pitchers that will get us deep into the game. And we've got an offense that can outscore quite a few teams. I think the most important component and the likeliest reason we'll be successful is how strong we are defensively and how fundamentally sound we are as a team."

Defensively, the infield features three Gold Glove winners in Votto, Rolen and second baseman Brandon Phillips. Outfielders Drew Stubbs and Jay Bruce have displayed skills that could eventually net Gold Gloves as well.

The Reds were second in runs scored last season, but seemed to come up short at key moments. The lineup will benefit from the return of a healthy Rolen, who was limited to 65 games last season and batted .242 because of a shoulder injury. Phillips, who is playing out his $12.5 million option year this season, will be the leadoff hitter from the start. He will be even more motivated for a big season as he could possibly head to free agency if an extension can't be worked out with the club.

Bruce is coming off a season where he set career highs with 32 homers and 97 RBIs. Now 25, he is looking for consistency at the plate over an entire season and dropped 15 pounds to set his body up for success. Stubbs will be trying to shake off a club record 205-strikeout season. Few in baseball produce more all-around offense than Votto, who becomes one of the NL's premier first baseman now that Albert Pujols and Prince Fielder are out of the league -- and just as important, out of the NL Central.

Cincinnati has turned to a pair of rookies to man key positions in the field with shortstop Zack Cozart and catcher Devin Mesoraco. Cozart had a superb spring -- both offensively and defensively -- and looks 100 percent healthy after a left elbow injury limited him to 11 big league games after his July call-up last season.

Mesoraco, who did not hit well in camp but was solid catching, will likely share time behind the plate with veteran Ryan Hanigan. The more Mesoraco hits, the more his playing time will likely be.

General manager Walt Jocketty focused much of his offseason attention to improving the pitching staff. The rotation, which was battered with injuries and disappointing performances, ranked 13th in the NL with a 4.47 ERA in 2011.

Coming off his best year, Johnny Cueto missed some games with injuries, but developed into a No. 1 starter. He will pitch Opening Day against the Marlins. Latos, who had a strong spring, will be the No. 2 starter and at 24, has the makings of a future ace. Bronson Arroyo, coming off the worst season of his career, wants to show he still has it. Mike Leake rallied for a strong second season to lead the team in wins and strikeouts in 2011. Aroldis Chapman showed in camp that he belongs in a rotation and with improved tempo and command, cut down on his walks.

Now the question that can't be answered on Opening Day, but will be known by Game 162: Does it all add up for the Reds to get back to the playoffs?

"I think we already have that belief now we are going to win," said left fielder Chris Heisey. "I think that's half the battle. Expecting to win as opposed to expecting to lose. Losing Ryan, it was definitely a big blow to lose your closer. But we'll definitely rebound from it and move forward. I really feel like we can still have a lot of success."

MICHAEL MANN, AGRICULTURE AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Warmer, fire-light concerns

Cedar rusts and light concerns this spring are causing a few concerns for apple growers. The biggest threats right now are cedar rusts and fire blight.

Cedar rust galls are developing. As gall swells, they produce spores that threaten apple (and sometimes crabapple and hawthorn).

Swelling galls were observed on cedar in Lexington in mid-March. Warmer temperatures in Western Kentucky provided conditions for even earlier gall development. These galls indicate that rust pathogens are releasing or preparing to release infective spores. Growers should protect trees with fungicides. Once diseases symptoms develop on apple, it is often too late for control.

Three types of cedar rusts affect Kentucky apples:

1. Cedar-apple rust produces large brown galls on cedar and other species of Juniperus. Soon after a rain, galls produce slimy yellow or orange "horns" that are made up of infective spores (basidiospores). These spores immediately infect apples, causing yellowish leaf spots with red rings (called halos). Infected fruit develop large spots near the calyx end. These fruit are often stunted and may prematurely drop.

2. Cedar-quince rust produces orange swellings on twigs. Spores produced in these slimy lesions affect apple fruit, but not leaves. Infection of blooms and young fruit occurs early in the season, but symptoms do not develop until fruit mature. Diseased fruit are puckered and have spongy lesions at the calyx end.

3. Cedar-hawthorn rust forms galls similar to cedar-apple rust, only smaller. Spores produced from short "horns" infect apple, crabapple and hawthorn. Leaf spots on apple appear similar to those caused by apple cedar rust, and can cause defoliation. Fruit infection is not common.

Growers should use fungicides to prevent rust pathogens from infecting apples. After symptoms develop on apples, they are often too late for control.

As to fire blight, primary infections occur through blossoms, so it is critical to manage the disease before and during bloom. It is too late to spray after bloom.

The disease is most prolific when conditions are warm and rainy at bloom. Our current conditions are an indication that fire blight may be severe this spring. All growers should be utilizing UK's Cougarblight predictive system. It is extremely easy to use, first visit http://www.wagwx.ca.uky.edu/plant\_disease.html. Next, click "Fire Blight" on the left side of the screen. Choose the weather station that is closest to the orchard by clicking the arrow under "Station" in the center of the screen. There are a few options below, such as the history of fire blight in the orchard. Finally, click "Submit Choices." The next screen will describe the risk of infection in the orchard. Fire blight control measures include antibacterial pesticides applied during bloom. Applications made after bloom are ineffective. When fire blight risk is high (warm temperatures combined with rain) during bloom or if fire blight was a problem last year, the following spray schedule should be followed:

1. Apply fixed copper at silver tip. Do not use copper fungicides after bud break.
2. Apply streptomycin repeating every 4-5 days, through petal fall. At least two applications are required, but you may apply up to four sprays, depending on rain and temperature conditions. Pay extra attention to susceptible varieties (i.e. Gala, Jonathan and Rome). Utilize Cougarblight or marybright predictive systems for assistance. Mycoshield (oxytetracycline) is also available for management of fire blight but is not as effective as streptomycin.

Refer to the Midwest Tree Fruit Spray Guide ID-92 for spray recommendations or our UK Disease blog at <http://nicolewarduk.blogspot.com/> for more information on fire blight. For more information or for fungicide recommendations, contact the Pendleton Co. Cooperative Extension Service.

KENNA KNIGHT, FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES

Helping children cope with natural disasters

Children living in tornado-damaged areas might have lost their homes, families, possessions and familiar routines as a result of the storms. One of the ways you can help your children cope is by reestablishing some of the routines you had before the tornadoes. Having the same bedtime routine, eating familiar foods and replacing lost possessions, such as toys, can help both you and your child cope.

Children respond to the events on a different timetable than adults. It may take them much longer to express their feelings about what has happened. Just because they aren't talking about the situation, doesn't mean they are not troubled or saddened by it. It's important to keep the conversation flowing and allow the child to express their feelings about the disaster. You will likely have many conversations over the years about how this event impacted your lives.

After a storm, children may ask a lot of questions, some of which could be difficult for you to answer. It's important to answer questions honestly and clear up any misconceptions. If you don't have an answer, you and your children may be able to look up one together.

Enrollment for FSA programs

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director John

W. McCauley is reminding producers that the 2012 deadline to enroll in the Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment (DCP) program is June 1.

DCP provides payments to eligible producers on farms enrolled for any of the 2008 through 2012 crop years. There are two types of DCP payments: direct payments and counter-cyclical payments. Both are calculated using the base acres and payment yields established for the farm. DCP is authorized by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (2008 Farm Bill).

In addition to DCP, other FSA programs also have enrollment deadlines approaching:

Even though a young child has been through a traumatic situation, it's important to keep their behaviors in check. Rules can be reassuring to a child who feels like they have no control. Give children simple chores to do, and make sure they understand that hitting someone or taking things from others is not allowed.

Just because a child lives a good distance from where the tornadoes hit doesn't mean they were not affected. Perhaps you had family or friends in the affected areas. If possible, allowing your child to have contact with that person can assure them that they are safe. Try to limit your children's media exposure, as constant reminders of the tragedy may be unsettling or disturbing to your children.

If you don't have loved ones in these areas, your children may still be affected. You should make yourself available and open to answer any questions they have. Listen to what your children are saying, thinking and feeling. It's important to reassure your children and correct misunderstandings. Some children may be afraid that a similar thing will happen in their community. You can help them by talking about ways you could prepare for disasters and reassure them you'll do everything you can to keep them safe. Sometimes all children need to know is that you love them and will protect them to the best of your ability.

For more information on coping with natural disasters, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

SHELLEY MEYER, 4-H/YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

Get ready to go camping

Spring has sprung and before you know it, summer will be here. 4-H Camp is a great way to fill those lazy summer days. At 4-H Camp, young people learn independence, responsibility, have a lot of fun and make many friends.

4-H camps are open to all Kentucky youth between the ages of 9 and 14. Many exciting activities and adventures await campers. 4-Hers can spend their days participating in activities ranging from swimming to nature hikes. Not only do many children find these activities fun, but they will likely learn new skills and develop a greater appreciation for the environment and wildlife.

4-H personnel want your child to have camping experience that is not only memorable, but safe. All camp staff and volunteers are trained and undergo background checks prior to camp. Each camp location will have an on-site emergency medical technician at all times to take care of campers' needs.

Campers will attend one of four regionally-located camps. All four camps have been accredited since 2005 by the American Camp Association.

4-H members from Pendleton County will attend the North Central Camp in Carlisle, KY from July 2nd - 5th. Registration forms are due by June 1st.

For more information about 4-H Camp, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service or visit the 4-H Camp website at <http://www2.ca.uky.edu/4-h/camp>.

The sun is shining brightly at 7:45 a.m. Looks like it will be a nice day to dry laundry outside. I do hope it will warm up as our thermometer shows 34 degrees. After having 80 degree weather this seems cold.

I went to the basement this morning and it almost made me tired seeing the big pile of laundry waiting to be washed. I shouldn't complain, though, about having the good health to do it. I also have it a lot easier doing laundry than when we lived in Indiana. I have hot and cold running water so I can run it right into the machine. In Indiana I had to carry all my water from the cistern pump and heat it on the stove before I could do laundry. Although I don't have one, some of the ladies in the church have a spinner so they can spin their laundry dry before they hang it up. It does a lot better job than the wringer I use. That would be very handy during the winter months when laundry dries indoors.

We attended church services yesterday at our neighbors. Brother-in-law Jacob wasn't able to attend so we went to visit them and ended up having supper. We had our season's first taste of green onions. Onions are coming up in their garden from last year. Also on the menu was barbecued chicken, creamed potatoes, steamed potatoes, dandelion green salad, cheese, ice cream and chocolate chip cookies.

The girls have been busy raking yesterday. Joe and the children burned a lot of branches from the two pine trees he had to cut down. A local sawmill will buy the large logs from the big oak tree. It will look better when that mess is all cleaned up. It looks like we might also have to mow the grass this week.

The children will be off from school next week for their spring break. After they go back they will be in the last quarter of this school term. So hard to believe that time went so fast.

Lovina, 7, is home from school today. She seems to have something in her eye and can't open it very well. I want to call the eye doctor to see if I can bring her in to have it checked out. She doesn't want to open it, says it feels like something is in her eye.

Joe planted a few rows of potatoes last week. I want to put some more early things out but it wouldn't feel good working in the garden this morning. Brrr! I think we'll get our first taste of rhubarb this week, which I may bake into this coffee cake.

RHUBARB COFFEE CAKE

INGREDIENTS:

- 1-1/2 cups brown sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1-1/2 cups chopped rhubarb
- Topping: 1/4 cup white sugar, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 1 tablespoon butter

DIRECTIONS: In a large mixing bowl, cream shortening, sugar, and egg. In another bowl, combine flour, soda, and salt. Add alternately with sour cream to the creamed mixture. Fold in rhubarb. Spread into a greased 9-by-13 inch baking pan. Combine all topping ingredients and sprinkle over batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes.

A new procedure is in place to help prevent errors in the operating room. It's called Sign Your Site. Before any surgery, the doctor signs the correct spot on the body where an operation is to occur, while the patient watches and verifies. Orthopaedic surgeons have been advocating it for years. Now, even more doctors are doing it. Visit aaos.org to find out more, because when it comes to surgery, there's no such thing as being too cautious.
